

Given a sloping topography, the far view of the River Derwent, and a client brief requesting a passive solar home with links to the future garden, the two level plan of House Kregor cuts across the contours, orientates to the North and extends on different levels to landscape.

house kregor

